Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Performance Evaluation Metrics for Information Systems Development: A Principal-Agent Model The information systems (IS) development activity in large organizations is a source of increasing cost and concern to management IS development projects arc often over-budget, late, costly to maintain, and not done to the satisfaction of the requesting user. These problems exist, in part, due to the organization of the IS development process, where information systems development is typically assigned by the user (principal) to a systems developer (agent). These two parties do rot have perfectly congruent goals, and therefore a contract is developed to specify their relationship. An inability to directly monitor the agent requires the use of performance measures, or metrics, to represent the agent s actions to the principal The use of multiple measures is necessary given the multi-dimensional nature of successful systems development In practice such contracts are difficult to develop satisfactorily, due in pan to an inability to specify appropriate metrics. This paper develops a principal-agent model that provides a set of decision criteria for the principal to use to develop an incentive compatible contract for the agent. These criteria include the precision and the sensitivity of the performance metric. After presenting the formal model, some current software development metrics are discussed to illustrate how the model can be used to provide a theoretical foundation and a formal vocabulary for performance metric analysis. The model is also used in a positive (descriptive) manner to explain why current practice emphasizes metrics that possess relatively high levels of sensitivity and precision. Finally, some suggestions are made for the improvement of current metrics based upon these criteria. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes...
