Not illustrated. 1869 Excerpt: . to retire from hence; if our friend returns, he may take us for a set of thieves, and suppose that we came to eat his seeds, and I should be sorry he had an ill opinion of us. Well, I am ready, said his mate; And we, cried the whole brood; they accordingly left the tool-house, and hopped about the currantbushes. I think, said the father, that you who have the full use of your limbs could manage to get up these low trees, but Robin must content himself upon the ground a little longer. This was very mortifying, but he had no one to blame except himself; so he forbore to complain, and assumed as much cheerfulness as he could. His brother and sisters begged they might stay with him all day, as they could do very well without going up to the nest; to this the parents consented. CHAPTER XIII. Mrs. Benson assists a Family in distress. T is now time to inquire after Frederick and Harriet Benson. These happy children reached home soon after they left the redbreasts, and related every circumstance of their expedition to their kind mother, who, hearing the little prisoners in the basket chirp very loudly, desired they would immediately go and feed them, which they gladly did; and then took a short lesson. Mrs. Benson told Harriet that she was going to pay a visit in the afternoon, and would take her with her; therefore desired...
